Bell 505 Becomes First Single Engine Helicopter to Fly Using 100% SAF

A helicopter produced by Bell Textron has completed its first flight fueled only with SAF (Sustainable Aviation Fuel) on Wednesday with its Bell 505, becoming the first single engine helicopter to fly using 100% SAF. This flight was allowed thanks to a collaboration between Bell, Safran, Neste, GKN Aerospace and Virent. It would likely allow great advancements in aviation decarbonization.

Roald Dahl classic editions will be released, following censorship concerns

Last week, a report revealed that the editor Puffin released new versions of books of Roald Dahl. They decided to remove or revise language related to gender, race, mental health, violence and weight.

This decision was heavily criticized in the world of literature, so Friday, Puffin finally announced that they would release the classic texts of Roald Dahl next to this new version, adapted for children.
