

BERTHOLLET'S PRESS REVIEW

By Yassine, Maël, Cyrian, Remi

SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY:

May 7th, 2023

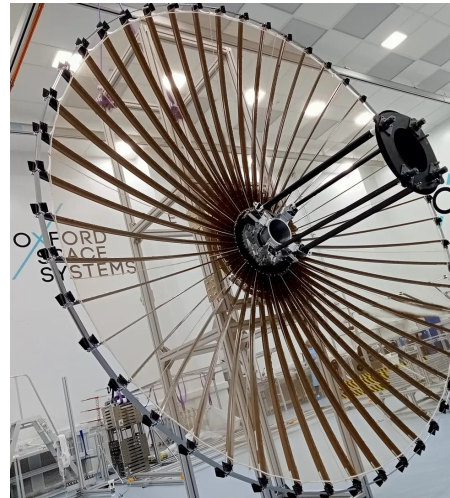

BBC science

UK "knitted satellite" will see Earth day or night

The UK wants to launch a new radar-satellite the CarbSar. It will see through cloud and will even work at night. It will have both civil and military purpose. The UK will start building their spacecraft this year with the help from two technology companies.

@

<https://www.bbc.com/news/science-environment-65483204>

ART AND CULTURE:

May 7, 2023

The Guardian

My play King Charles III was written as a tragedy. It's a warning about what happens now

In 2013, Mike Bartlett wrote a tragedy about the coronation and the beginning of the reign of Charles III. He wonders now how he was to reality.

@

<https://www.theguardian.com/uk-news/2023/may/07/my-play-king-charles-iii-was-written-as-a-tragedy>

SOCIETY:

April 10, 2023

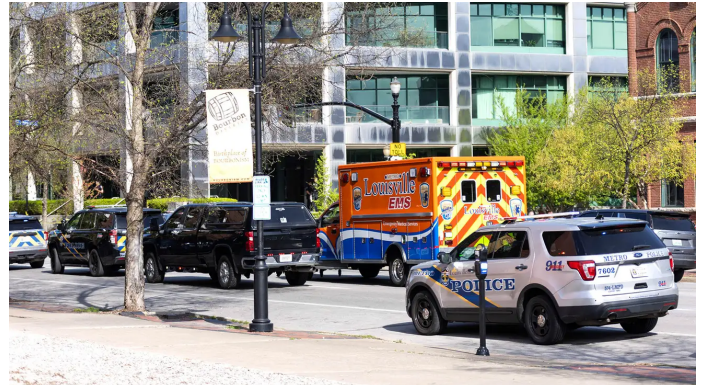

The Onion

'No Way To Prevent This,' Says Only Nation Where This Regularly Happens

Following the recent shooting in Louisville Kentucky that killed at least 5 people, The Onion is mocking the government's inaction and the media's repetitive coverage of mass shootings. Adding a 33rd article in their series of "No Way To Prevent This" articles, a satirical commentary on the recurring nature of mass shootings in the United States.

@

<https://www.theonion.com/louisville-no-way-to-prevent-this-says-only-nation-where-this-regularly-happens-1850319203>

ENVIRONMENT:

27th april 2023

BBC News

Spain breaks record temperature for April

Spain recorded its hottest temperature ever for this month, hitting 38.8C, in Cordoba airport, situated in southern Spain. It was caused by a hot weather across North Africa, a sky so clear sky that allows sunshite to hit the ground, wich is so dry that it cannot evaporate the heat. Climate change is involved in this heatwave. This phenomenon is not isolated, all across the world high temperatures have broken records.

@:

<https://www.bbc.com/news/science-environment-65403381>

POLITICS:

May 7, 2023

BBC NEWS

Yevgeny Prigozhin: Wagner boss promised ammunition after retreat

The boss of the Wagner Group says that Moscow agreed to give him more ammunition, after he threatened to withdraw his men from Bakhmut a few days ago. Western officials said that thousands of these troops have been killed, and that the city is now a symbolic prize. Tensions between the Russian troops and the Wagners are present, and Prigozhin blames the Russian officials for their lack of help in the front line.

@

<https://www.bbc.com/news/world-europe-65516633>

SPORT:

May 6, 2023

CNN

Why Liverpool fans booed while national anthem played at Anfield for King Charles' coronation

Liverpool fans booed while "God save the King" was played at Anfield to mark the coronation of the king. They are known for booing the national anthem. They are doing it because the city has a negative history with the government, it suffered during the deindustrialization of the country economy in the 70s and 80s, combined to tensions with the police, and the reign of Thatcher, has led to anti establishment feelings among the citizens of this city. It is also a way to call out the social and economic inequality that is happening in the country.

@

<https://edition.cnn.com/2023/05/06/football/liverpool-king-charles-coronation-national-anthem-ckc-spt-intl/index.html>

